The Rules:

These books are arranged alphabetically. The indefinite article in English (The, A, An, etc) has been ignored so “The Poppy” is under P for Poppy and not T for The. Where a piece is in a language other than English then the first letter of the full title has been used so “Le Tambour Major” would be filed under L for Le.

Please feel free to open the folders by the d rings to make pieces easier to use on the music stand, but please ensure you put the music back in the right place and do not remove the parts from the plastic sleeves.

The Aims:

These books aim to include a representative selection of all music played by the various individuals and organisations who are members of the society, specifically it is intended the books contain:

- Some ‘Standards’ that are used across several member organisations.
- Some easy pieces for learners, typically those that use the simpler flute fingerings.
- Well arranged pieces with full sets of parts for all instrumentation.
- Some unusual pieces to broaden the range of music people are familiar with.
- Some ‘trophy’ marches to challenge those who have been playing a long time.
- Marches which represent the significant tri-service and veteran organisations.
- A range of different keys, tempos and styles.
- Representative pieces from all of the significant Corps of Drums composers.

The Society hope you will enjoy playing from these books. Please make any requests for additions at the annual AGM to allow an update each year.
